insisted that our soak-off gels
were perfect before we released them.”

“we don't care about being first. we care about being totally freakin' awesome.”

At Young Nails, we weren't first out of the gate with soak-off gels. And we were plenty fine with that. Sure, we were working on them secretly in the lab but didn't release our system until absolutely every little thing was up to our standards. And yours. We wanted to make sure that the formula was stable, reliable, predictable and abundant. That the color selections were customer favorites. That you could work confidently and quickly with a zippy 30-second cure (saving you almost 20 minutes per client). And that you had an LED lamp that's easy to clean, easy to use and economical to maintain. Not one thing needed to be rushed—but it all needed to be right. Young Nails mani•Q color gel system. In or out of the bottle, it's always all about you. Awesome.
